SECTION 01

A clear structure around BitLease Platform

49G is an ownership-based group of companies organised around BitLease Platform. 49G HOLDING LTD is the parent company and owner of the core Platform IP and the IP in three specialist entries. Three subsidiaries carry defined responsibilities across the structure, each acting in its own name and through its own governance.

SECTION 03

The companies

49G HOLDING LTD owns all shares in three subsidiaries:

BITLEASE TECHNOLOGY LTD, United Kingdom - operator of BitLease Platform and current holder of the Core Platform Company role.

BITLEASE INC., Delaware, United States - operator of 49AION and Partner Program.

BITLEASE CAPITAL LTD, British Virgin Islands - operator of HyperHedge.

The parent relationship identifies who owns the companies. Each subsidiary remains responsible for the decisions, activities and commitments made in its own name.

SECTION 04

The Platform and specialist portfolio

BitLease Platform is the group's core product and technology system. 49G HOLDING LTD owns its core IP. BITLEASE TECHNOLOGY LTD operates the Platform and currently holds the Core Platform Company role, known as CoreCo.

CoreCo is the role of the central Platform company. It has one holder at a time. The Platform is the product, CoreCo is the role and BITLEASE TECHNOLOGY LTD is the company currently assigned to it.

Three specialist entries sit alongside the Platform:

49AION - IP owner: 49G HOLDING LTD; operator: BITLEASE INC.

HyperHedge - IP owner: 49G HOLDING LTD; operator: BITLEASE CAPITAL LTD.

Partner Program - IP owner: 49G HOLDING LTD; operator: BITLEASE INC.

SECTION 05

How the architecture works

The structure answers four different questions: who owns a company, who owns the relevant intellectual property, who operates a product or capability and which legal entity enters a contract.

Keeping those relationships separate makes responsibility clear. Holding owns the subsidiary shares and the identified IP. The named operators carry their respective product and capability roles. A contract belongs to the company named as its party.

The Founder Office shapes strategic direction and institutional design. Each company gives that direction corporate effect through its own board, governance and authorised acts.

SECTION 06

Media background

49G Group is the collective description for the companies owned by 49G HOLDING LTD. Organised around BitLease Platform, the group combines a single corporate parent and IP owner with identified companies responsible for the Platform and its specialist capabilities.
